Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

Portland, Nov. 21.—The week has thus far been a dull one on front street so far as produce is concerned. Dealers however, look upon the situation as the calm before the storm, and predict lively movement as Thanksgiving approaches. Large quantities of California fruits and vegetables, as well as home produced fruits and poultry, are already in stock, but prices are considered normal, as the movement is slow. Dressed turkeys are being sent to cold storage in large numbers to await the demand that is expected to manifest itself about November 26—four days before Thanksgiving.

Considerable hay, both valley and Eastern Oregon, is offering, and quotations are inclined to be weak, as the demand is only local. Valley timothy sells at $10.11 per ton, while that from Eastern Oregon is quoted at $13.50 to $14. The hay from East of the mountains has the advantage of being cured in periods of uninterrupted sunshine, while the valley hay is inclined to mold and is often mixed with weeds.
